

A Song for Australia

To the lovely old music, “The Song of Australia” by Carl Linger, 1859

Australia, land of unity;
Of hope and opportunity
An ancient land now shared by birth with those from all the Earth.
We live through droughts and fires and rains;
Integrity our pride sustains;
We’re free, we’re equal, justice reigns.
Australia; Australia; Australia!

New second-last line – if given consent from its authors to the same melody as the last line, similar to the well-known original:

I am; you are; we are Australian!
